Changes to NOVELNY Databases

On Wednesday, April 1, we will no longer have access to Informe, Health Reference Center Academic and the General Science Collection. We received free access to these databases through the NOVELNY program sponsored by the New York State Library (NYSL). After their annual database review, NYSL no longer offers access to these resources. We will be evaluating options for adding new content from NOVELNY in the near future. If you have any questions, please contact Alesia McManus.

One Place to Look Up Journals

We now have one place where you can find out which journals we subscribe to. Both online and print journal subscriptions are available in the e-journals list in metaLINK <http://zp3xh7ca4f.search.serialssolutions.com/>. Just type in the name of the journal you are looking for. In addition to links to our online journal subscriptions, you can find out which volumes we have of a print journal by clicking on "Print Journals in BU Libraries."

Places & Spaces: Mapping Science Exhibit

Are you interested in seeing science from above? Curious to see what impact one single person or invention can have?

Places & Spaces: Mapping Science poster exhibition aims to demonstrate the power of maps to navigate and manage physical places and abstract spaces. The science exhibit is meant to inspire cross-disciplinary discussion on how to best track and communicate human activity and scientific progress on a global scale. The posters will be on display until March 13, 2009 at the Science Library.

For more information about the exhibition, visit Places & Spaces: Mapping Science. Acknowledgements: Places & Spaces is curated by Dr. Katy Borner and Elisha F. Hardy, School of Library and Information Science at Indiana University. The exhibit is sponsored by NSF awards IIS-0238261 and CHE-0524661; Thomson Scientific; the Cyberinfrastructure for Network Science Center, Indiana University.

There will also be an accompanying exhibit in the Science Library showcasing library materials about scientific visualization.
